

Production way up at Alabu Soap!

This family run business is about to burst out into the main stream market. This article speaks to the ever increasing popularity of Alabu Soap.

Mechanicville, NY, January 14, 2008 – Alabu Soap, www.alabu.com, makers of natural 100% goat milk soap and other natural beauty aids, is pleased to announce their newly improved facilities, which has streamlined the production of their handmade soap, lotion sticks and Baby Face moisturizers. Thanks to these improvements, production capacity is up to 1500-1800 bars per day, greatly facilitating the handling of large wholesale orders.

Increased production has not affected the high quality of Alabu Soap handcrafted products; they continue to be the finest. According to Soap Maker Maryclaire Mayes, “With our improved facilities and our already rigorous quality control standards, Alabu Soap continues to provide the finest 100% goat milk soap on the market”. Maryclaire continues, “We can now produce the same high quality in larger quantities more efficiently.”

Alabu Soap is justly famous for their high-quality 100% goat milk handcrafted soap made from fresh goat milk, not dried powder milk. With their increased production capabilities they can now easily fill large orders quickly and efficiently. Maryclaire Mayes, stands behind both the quality of her product and the ability of Alabu to quickly fill large orders. Alabu, Inc. is now fully capable to add chain stores and exclusive boutiques to its list of world wide customers.
