

'Goalden Girl' Strikes And Scores On The Online Book Market!

Tracey Morait's first novel for children, 'Goalden Girl', is making a big impact on the online book market!

Aimed at children aged ten and upwards, 'Goalden Girl' is the story of Gemma Sutherland and her quest to make sure the girls at her school get the chance to play football, despite the boys, particularly Tyrone Collins, doing everything they can to prevent it. There are conflicts between both sexes and tests of will. Who will win the day?

The story has a great appeal for children who enjoy sport, and especially girls who like playing and watching the Beautiful Game. There is also a mystery to solve for Gemma, involving the stepmother she dislikes and her games teacher, Mr Cassidy. An unexpected twist at the end leaves Gemma, and the reader, totally surprised!

'Goalden Girl', [b]ISBN: 9781847997586[/b], retails at around $14.00 a copy, and is for sale online at Barnes and Noble, all Amazon sites, Blackwells, and Tesco and Waterstones (UK) Online. It can also be ordered through any book shop.

<http://traceymoraitnovels.blogspot.com/>