

SEOptimise Continue Growth with Office Move

SEOptimise has recently moved to a larger office on the Oxford Science Park, a leading Hi-Tech business park, to a larger office providing an exclusive working environment

SEOptimise has recently moved to a larger office on the Oxford Science Park, a leading Hi-Tech business park, to a larger office which provides an exclusive working environment, caters for science and technology companies.

SEOptimise, a Google AdWords qualified and IAB registered, search engine marketing agency, according to Stuart Tofts, Commercial Director, said the move to Oxford Science Park was required to take the company forward, "The move to Oxford Science Park illustrates our success in growing the company and offers us the environment required to continue to provide our clients an excellent service. We look forward to pursuing our ambitious growth plans."

It has also strengthened its team by hiring Macaulay Iyayi in a business development role. Following his appointment he said, "SEOptimise have built up a successful best practice and ethical search marketing agency. I am looking forward to developing profitable business relationships to increase our revenue channels and enhance the growth that SEOptimise continues to experience."

Macaulay, a Sir Ray Tindle Scholar, brings to the company his previous business development experience was at CPM Ltd, which involved working with Mercedes-Benz, Smart Car and in his previous role with the Envy Retail Group.

[b]About SEOptimise[/b]

SEOptimise was established in March 2006, by Kevin Gibbons. Kevin had spent the previous 3 years working on web-based projects for some of the countries biggest brands including The Carphone Warehouse, BuyEpson and the Corus Hotel Group.

SEOptimise provides search engine marketing solutions to businesses across the world with a web presence. It prides itself on its innovative approach, its quality of service, and its professional integrity. Working in partnership with its clients, SEOptimise is creating leaders in the online marketplace.

<http://www.seoptimise.com>