

BMW Concept CS Photos Unveiled

The BMW Concept CS was unveiled at the NY Auto Show on March 21, 2008. Photos of the Concept CS Grand Turismo are now online.

The BMW Concept CS was unveiled for the first time at the 2008 New York Auto Show to the North American Market. The NY Auto Show this year is being held at the Jacob Javits Center in Manhattan from March 21st - 23rd .

The BMW Concept CS was unveiled under tight security and roped off so that the car was not touched by show attendees. Whispers indicate a production date in 2010 or 2011 for this Grand Turismo vehicle. The car originally debuted in 2007 at the Shanghai Auto Show.

Thomas Defelice, owner of Circle BMW in New Jersey, commented that "The Concept CS was the best looking concept car at the show. BMW outdid itself with a stunning design. This car will be an instant classic for high end luxury car buyers"

While at the show, Thomas had the opportunity to meet with the designer of the car; a gentlemen named Karim Antoine Habib. Karim seemed to be quietly satisfied with the praise the car was receiving from the show attendees. The display area was under constant fire of camera flash as viewers attempted to capture the masculine power of the Grand Turismo Concept CS.

A slideshow of photos taken of the BMW Concept CS car are posted on the Circle BMW website at www.circlebmw.com. Over 15 high resolution photos of the car are available to view.
