

Paintball Paint to Barrel Match. Check It Out

Check this out to find if your paintballs are the right size for your barrel.

Here is a guide to some of the more common size paintballs on the market and what you need to look for when selecting a paintball for your barrel. Note, you need to have the following things happen if you want to get good accuracy, good consistency and no barrel breaks.

- Place a paintball in your barrel,
- If it rolls out easily, your paint is too small,
- If it does not roll out, blow in your barrel,
- If you turn blue trying to blow it out, your paint is too big,
- If you can easily or fairly easily blow it out, you have the right size paint.

RPS Premium Medium .689 - .691
RPS Premium Gold Medium .689 - .691
RPS Marbalizer Small .686 - .688
RPS All-Star Very small .682 - .685
RPS BigBall Medium to small .688 - .690
Proball Small .686 - .688
Proball Lite Small to medium .687 - .689
Proball Devil Small .686 - .688
Proball Platinum Small .686 - .688
Zap Select Medium .689 - .691
Zap Classic Medium .689 - .691
Zap Advantage Medium to small .688 - .690
Zap ProSeries Medium to small .688 - .690
Zap ProSport Medium .689 - .691
Brass Eagle, old style Large .692+
Brass Eagle Top Brass Medium .689 - .691
Nelson Challenger Large .692+
Paintball Mania First Choice Large .692+
PowerBall Medium .689 - .691
Diablo Inferno Small .686 - .688
Diablo Blaze Medium to Small .688 - .690
Diablo HellFire Very small .682 - .685
PMI Paintballs Medium .689 - .691

<http://www.ansgear.com>