

Author publishes new book Blood Up to your Ankles by Peter Wilks

Press release on Peter Wilks, the author of a newly released book. Author shares experience of book writing and personal life.

[b>About the book[/b]

“God’s covenant of blood with His people is a centrepiece of church life and scriptural pursuit. The entire Church will benefit wonderfully by what Peter set forth in print. You’ll be challenged and provoked to study deeper than ever before. You’ll also be drawn into a great depth of intimacy with the Father Himself, which is the key to fulfilment for us all. Read this book, then read it again, take notes, teach it yourself, and then pass it on to others so that all might know that we are in an indissoluble covenant of love with Almighty God!” says Rev. Rod Anderson Co. Founder and Director of Prayer for the Nations.

This book provides an insight into the seriousness of blood covenants it discusses the particular mindset required of a blood covenanter and focuses on the covenant God cut with Abraham. The book seeks to show how the blood covenant God cut with Abraham applies to people and explain how this eternal covenant can benefit all Christians today.

Blood Up to your Ankles can be obtained at the following address:

<http://www.pneumasprings.co.uk/Blood%20up%20to%20your%20ankle.htm>