CompuChild USA, a leader in technology education for young children, announces a new franchisee serving Spartanburg and Cherokee Counties in South Carolina. Lisa Madding becomes the newest franchisee

CompuChild USA, a leader in technology education for young children, announces a new franchisee serving Spartanburg and Cherokee Counties in South Carolina. Lisa Madding becomes the newest franchisee and the fourth CompuChild franchisee in South Carolina.

CompuChild provides age-appropriate computer instruction for young children. Affordable classes are conducted in childcare centers and preschools on a regular basis to provide children with a structured progressive curriculum in technology education while utilizing educational software.

“Mrs. Madding makes a great addition to our franchise network,” said Julie Standish, President and CEO. “She has been teaching CompuChild classes for another franchise owner and recently purchased her own territory. We are very excited to watch CompuChild grow in South Carolina.”

CompuChild was founded in 1994 and began franchising in 2001. With over 60 franchisees in 28 states and Puerto Rico, their franchise system works throughout the country in rural communities and urban areas.

Mrs. Madding is currently adding new schools to her fall rooster. For more information, interested directors and parents may call 864-921-0399 or email lmadding@compuchild.com.
