

Essex and Hudson County NJ Criminal Attorneys: Todd Palumbo Releases Criminal and Traffic Defense Website

The Law Offices of Todd Palumbo is an Essex and Hudson County New Jersey Criminal and traffic defense law firm appearing on all criminal and traffic matters throughout the State.

Essex and Hudson County New Jersey criminal defense lawyer Todd Palumbo released a newly designed website this week providing information for all Essex and Hudson county criminal and traffic offenses. The Law Offices of Todd Palumbo has formatted the site so those charged with various criminal and traffic charges in NJ can easily search for their particular topic and locate offense specific information. Mr. Palumbo also hopes that this resource will be used by other New Jersey criminal defense attorneys to obtain answers to various procedural and substantive law questions. The site is in a blog format, with daily postings about various case law and crime specific news.

Mr. Palumbo is a New Jersey native and has dedicated his practice entirely to criminal and traffic defense work, including DWI charges. He hails from a pedigree that includes over 30 years of experience in the field. Lawyer Todd Palumbo created the site acknowledging that most people will attempt to educate themselves before making important decision and the law is no different. In addition, an educated client facilitates a more fluid experience and this results in actual monetary savings. This means that all involved will save money, including on legal fees.

The information can be found by searching Essex County NJ Criminal Attorney and more information can be obtained by contacting Todd Palumbo directly at 908-451-2667. The firm has two office locations in South Orange and Cranford, NJ.
