Zen Talk Snowmobile Radio
New Snowmobile Podcats Web Site

For three years I have been working on producing a snowmobile radio podcast, once a week. So far, I have created over 120 shows, but not all of them have been done on a 'weekly' basis. This year, with my health problems keeping me at home more, I decided in August to focus my main energies on the 'weekly' aspect, and with the addition of a faithful co-host Ric Federau , I have accomplished the regular creation of these shows.

The show has featured manufacturers of all kinds of snowmobile gadgets, safety discussions, destination topics, trailer talk, and interviews with top snowmobile organizers of all types. Most importantly, we still have basic ordinary sledheads on the show, talking about their trips to snowy places, and sharing their enthusiasm for the sport.

I hope you will give our show a listen on your i-pod or i-phone, or just listen to it directly on your computer speakers. It's best to download several episodes at a time, then plug your i-pod into the truck radio and listen all the way up to the trail head.

To date, the show's actual radio quality has not been professional, but I can say with confidence that it has improved. With your feedback and participation, it has more potential. That is why I want to invite YOU to be ON THE SHOW. Just give me an e-mail with your phone number and a time I can call you to record an interview. Talk about your club events, promote your local fund raiser, or just tell the listener tall tales of your own snowmobiling adventures.

I am hoping you will listen, and participate. So far, we have about 100 downloads per day, and I hope this will double over the snowy winter season. You can help by

- 1) Buying advertising (it's cheap)
- 2) Being a guest on the show.
- 3) sending an email out to all your sledding pals, to promote the show.
- 4) stick our logo on your club web site with a link.
- 5) buying a sticker for your snowmobiles, or a tee-shirt.

Come and see the new site, enter the contest, buy a tee shirt, or sign up to be a guest.
